Headteacher's Notes

Dear parents and carers,

As we make our way through the never-ending month of January, brighter mornings are slowly starting to appear. Despite some days being a little dreary with plenty of rain and cloud, the children have kept spirits high with their energy, kindness, and enthusiasm.

Our new Healthy Snack Policy was launched today with the children in an inspiring assembly led by Mr Lownsbrough, who introduced the initiative and encouraged everyone to think about the choices we make each day. Healthy snacks play a vital role in boosting energy, improving concentration, and helping children feel ready to learn. From Monday, we will be asking that children come to school with a healthy snack as part of our ongoing commitment to wellbeing. To support families, we'll also have alternative healthy options available in school and will continue to work closely with parents and carers to make this transition smooth and positive for everyone. Encouraging nutritious choices helps children stay energised, improves focus, and builds lifelong habits that contribute to their overall health. If you have any questions at all or need any guidance, please reach out to staff and we will be able to support.

This week, we welcomed our Year 3 parents and carers into school for a practical maths workshop. The session focused on multiplication and included a carousel of practical activities which Mr Lownsbrough had carefully planned to show how children learn these skills in class and how families can support to embed them at home. It was a great opportunity to see strategies that build confidence, strengthen understanding, and celebrate the important partnership between school and home in helping every child succeed. Thank you to all the parents and carers who were able to join us, your support and involvement make such a meaningful difference to the children's learning.

In both mine and Mr Cox's assemblies this week, we both focused on the school value of being warm-hearted. I shared the uplifting book 'Pass It On', using its message about spreading kindness, joy, and positivity to inspire the whole school. It was a lovely reminder that even small acts can make a big difference. In Mr Cox's WINGS assembly, he shared the story 'Thank You, Omu'. The book beautifully reflects our value of being warm-hearted, as Omu generously offers her delicious red stew to everyone who asks. Following the story, the children shared their own examples of how they demonstrated this value during the week. From sharing pens to helping others with technology, their kindness was evident throughout every year group within the school, and it was a pleasure to hear so many thoughtful stories.

I also want to express our sincere appreciation to all our parents and carers for living and championing our warm-hearted value. Your trust and positive partnership play a huge role in helping us maintain the calm, nurturing environment our children thrive in. If you have any worries, concerns, or would like to share anything at all with us, we are always here to listen and provide support.

I hope you all have a wonderful weekend enjoying quality time together.

Yours sincerely,
Mrs McKeon
