

Dear Diary

I wake up to the sound of dog's barking which was a sign that something was happening. I rushed down stairs. As fast as I could to see this ice crushed together against the Enchirance.

We all got the pit-axe's and we started to break the glacier which was impossible to break. Ernest Shackleton told Charles Green to make hot chocolate because we were freezing cold. Once we finished ~~breaking~~ breaking the ice so the boat could go up. I headed out, it was all fine until we got stuck once again. We hear noises of cooking, were the dog's were so free even excremented. Every single one of them. The muscular mind was so strong that one of the dog's nearly fell & flew away.

A few hours later things went from bad to worse for Enchirance. Frank knew exactly what was going to happen, as we watched she began to Sink. The jib boom and wires started to break and the ship began to crack. As we watched, Enchirance sank deeper and deeper into the freezing cold water.