World Book Day!

It has been a BRILLIANT day (and week) celebrating World Book Day. The children's love of books came through in their creative costumes, passionate recommendations and All round love of their favourite stories and characters.

The children all experienced super fun and interactive assemblies and workshops from BOOK MAN! Thank you to AS Creatives for making World Book Day so special.

Community Cavendish

We are relaunching our Cress preloved uniform shop. Cress is a platform that allows parents to access affordable uniform items year-round. Parents can browse and checkout 24/7, with items being collected from school. Cavendish's environmental impact will be measured from reuse, and money raised goes to the PTA. Anyone that wishes to support we are asking for excellent quality uniform items to be donated by Tuesday 10th of March in the foyer of the school office. Cress will be at our parents evening next week to chat with parents about the preloved shop.

GROWING BRILLIANTLY

✧ Changing Your Perspective on ✧ ✧ Hard Parenting Moments ✧

Parenting can feel difficult sometimes; however, taking a moment to shift your mindset can transform a parenting challenge into a moment of connection.

Let's rephrase how we think of hard parenting moments

When your child wants their way, remember they are being persistent.

When your child clings to you, remember they are affectionate and trying to connect with you.

When your child is being demanding, remember they are learning to be assertive.

When your child will not sit still, remember they are energetic and joyful.

When your child is whining all day, remember they are communicating their needs.

When your child is being loud, remember they are expressive and confident.

Parenting Mantras to Say in the Moment:

- * "My child is still learning, and so am I."
- * "I am a source of love and security for my child."
- * "I will focus on the present moment."
- * "I am not alone; many parents face similar challenges."
- * "My child's behavior doesn't define their worth."
- * "I am resilient, and so is my child."
- * "I am here for my child, no matter what."
- * "I will nurture our bond through love and connection."

We may not have the power to control our children, but we do have the power to adjust our thoughts and feelings about the struggles of parenting.

KEEPING SAFE & BEING HAPPY

Online Nation

Report 2025

More findings from the latest Ofcom report about life online for our children and young people.

Effect on young people?

Over half (56%) of children felt that being online had a 'mostly' good effect on how they feel about themselves. A small minority (3%) felt it had a 'mostly' bad effect, while a third (34%) felt it had a bit of both good and bad.

Helps with wellbeing?

Many children use the online world to aid their wellbeing.

Our research asked children aged 13-17 who go online whether they use websites, apps or other online services to help with various aspects of their wellbeing, and overall 69% said they did so. The most likely reasons were to help them relax (45%) or improve their mood (32%).

Benefits?

Nearly all children say that being online helps them to learn about the world, develop new skills and build social connections. Aiding their education is one area where children feel the internet benefits them. Our device tracking showed that 76% of 8-14s visited an education-related service in a month.

Parents agree there are beneficial aspects to their child being online – in particular, helping with schoolwork (72%), finding information about personal issues (35%) and hearing about the news (31%). Two-thirds (65%) of 13-17s see the online world as beneficial in building and maintaining their friendships, especially among girls (71% compared to 60% of boys). Social media and messaging apps play a big role, as 72% of 13-17s who use them agree that it helps them feel closer to their friends. But some children identify the negative impact of endlessly scrolling online, and it leading to 'brain-rot'.
