

Year 6: Rose Blanche and Anne Frank

Focus Writing
Diary	A book (written in the first person) where a person keeps a record of feelings, events and experiences.
Bravery Award Speech	Written and spoken by the person accepting an award. It informs the public of important/outstanding accomplishments

Vocabulary
satchel	a bag with long straps, used for carrying books	boorish	rough, uneducated, rude, loutish, gross mayor	the person elected to run a town or city	disbelieving	not believing something to be true frantically	to do something in a frightened or worried way	injustice	a lack of fairness in a situation; discrimination, bias, prejudice shrouded	covered	smirked	smiling in an unpleasant way paraded	display (someone/something) while marching or moving around a place	frenzy	wild behaviour caused by losing control of you feelings triumph(ed)	great success or achievement	puffed-up	(of a person) big-headed lumbering	awkward in movement	borough	district, area, community retreated	move away from something or someone	haughtily	showing arrogance tribute	showing admiration for someone	sublime	wonderful, magnificent, glorious pretext	a reason which you pretend has caused you to do something	valiantly	bravely, heroically, courageously, boldly adversity	a very difficult situation; hardship, trouble, distress	guile	being good at deceiving people; cunning, craft, deceptive, deceitful

Grammar, Punctuation and Language Features determiner	a word that goes before a noun and identifies the noun in detail	<pre>a tree; an apple; the forest (a = consonant; an = vowel)</pre> noun	a person, place or thing	Rose, camp, satchel adjective	describes a noun	brown satchel; lonely girl expanded noun phrase (no verb!)	determiner + adjective(s) + noun + preposition(al phrase)	the lonely girl in the window; an old satchel on her shoulder prepositional phrase	a group of words containing a preposition and noun it refers to	across the deserted landscape beneath the canopy of trees emotive language	words chosen specifically to evoke emotions or feelings in the reader	disbelieving eyes; haunting image; something startled me parenthesis (), ,	a word or phrase inserted as an explanation, punctuated with brackets, commas or dashes	Our own mayor, the supposed head of beloved borough - has changed.
adverbial (time, cause, manner)	a word or group of words containing information about how, when or where the verb happened	Today, After school, As I neared school, semi-colon (;)	used between two main clauses of equal importance	I shivered; it was cold here. He woke up; his dog barked.
colon (:)	used to separate two independent clauses (second clause explains the first) or to introduce a list	All the townsfolk agreed: the forest was a dangerous place to visit.
subordinate clause	part of a sentence that does not make sense on its own - dependent on the main clause and begins with a subordinating conjunction	Rose Blanche lives in small town as she was born there.
relative clause	a type of subordinate clause introduced by a relative pronoun (who, whose, which, that)	Rose Blanche, who had confusion in her eyes, did not understand the situation.
formal language	an official, serious language style where correct grammar must always be used (Standard English)	It is my opinion that We celebrate this remarkable individual		