

Helping your child with Writing

Class 1

Playdough Playdough is a great finger-strengthening activity. Add cutters and tools, theme it with a story or practise moulding letters.	Fine Motor Fine motor and hand-eye coordination will develop through lots of activities that use pinching, grasping, twisting, threading, squashing and squeezing. Activities, such as threading, weaving and manipulating small items with tweezers will all help build fine control.	Scissor skills Scissor skills help to develop fine motor muscles. Have long strips of paper available and draw a mixture of pattern lines on them (wavy, zigzag, straight). Invite children to cut along the lines to complete the pattern.
Writing letters Writing letters in sand, water or paint (or on whiteboards and chalkboards) is a great way to practise letter formation. Start with the letters from your child's name and move on to initial sounds.	Go Shopping Go shopping and let your child write a small part of your shopping list. Give your child the list while you are there for them to find the items and add them to give the trolley. You might help them to form the letters or write it together so it gives meaning to marking marks.	Mark making Making marks is often where early writing starts. Encourage mark making in natural materials, such as mud, sand or snow. Children can use a variety of tools to make marks, such as brushes, sticks and feathers. Pattern books can also be fun to do.
Drawing Drawing is a very good entry point for handwriting as it gives children an opportunity to practise guiding a pencil. They can follow a simple guide or use their imagination to draw.	Sensory Sensory opportunities are an excellent way to make writing fun and exciting. You could squirt shaving foam onto a smooth surface and add some paint in colours linked to a theme, such as season, rainbows or under the sea. They could mix the foam with paint and make marks with fingers or paintbrushes. Provide letters or patterns for them to copy.	Strengthen Fingers Strengthen fingers by using a pestle and mortar in the garden. Collecting things in the garden and break them down using the pestle and mortar; talk about the smells and the changes as it breaks down. Try some spices from the kitchen too.
