What will I be learning?

We will talk about ourselves, where we live, our friends and family. The children will learn that they are unique and will discuss what makes each of them special. We will compare and discuss a variety of family groups including in the home, at school and in the community. In maths we will use positional language and explore numbers. We will focus on subitising (recognise amounts without counting) and the composition of numbers. We will sort, match, group and compare items by size. We will measure height and capacity. In phonics we will practise listening skills, rhyme, oral blending and segmenting. We will learn the phonemes (letter sounds) for each letter. We will recognise the initial sounds of words and begin to blend to read simple words. We will write our name and practise forming letters. We will learn about the importance of rules and why we have them to stay safe. The children will learn our Wales learning behaviour code and how they will help them to become an active learner. We will use our senses to explore the environment and discuss how the seasons change.
