The Lion King Key Stage 2 school production

Tuesday 7th July 2026

Yesterday whilst attending rother valley and their water safety event , we were met with this absolute gem named Harrison , unbeknown to us Simon had visited Harrison's school the week previous to teach the children the dangers of open water . Harrison attended Rothervalley to be involved in the hands on side of water safety, Harrison had remembered everything about what Simon had told him in school the week prior and answered questions with confidence and understanding of what water safety is and what it means .
So those who say kids are not bothered, kids won't listen, Harrison has proven you wrong
I was absolutely blown away and speechless by how incredible he was and it's not very often I am left speechless, but I was admirably impressed by his knowledge and attitude towards water safety.
As a reward for his excellent work he got to choose anything that he wanted of our stall and here he is with his needoh pizza 🍕
Well done Harrison it was an absolute pleasure to meet you, your a credit to your parents and to your school ❤️ .
From everyone at Sam's army , keep spreading the word about water safety 🍌🍌🍌🍌 ...

(Shared with parents permission)

Proud moments

This post was written by Councillor Jodi Ryalls and shared on the Sam's Army Mission Life Facebook page. Harrison attended a water safety event at Rother Valley, after receiving a water safety talk at school the previous week held by Sam's Army Mission Life. Harrison impressed the organisers with how much he remembered, confidently answering questions and demonstrating an excellent understanding of water safety and the dangers of open water. The organisers were so impressed with his knowledge, attitude and enthusiasm that they publicly recognized him and rewarded him for his participation. They also commented on what a credit he is to both his parents and his school.

Green team were our Sports Day winners!

Well done to all pupils taking part and thank you to all the families who came to the event to support their children.
