It is Black History Month, why don't you try listening to music from black artists, like '3 Little Birds' by Bob Marley or 'Read All About It (Part III)' by Emeli Sandé. You could also read books by black authors, such as 'Look Up' by Nathan Byron.

Why don't you try...

Greenhill News

This week, the children have thoroughly enjoyed exploring the story The Colour Monster. Through engaging activities, they've been learning to identify and express their emotions, linking their experiences to the characters and themes in the book.

It's been wonderful to see their emotional awareness grow through creative and reflective learning. On Thursday, we celebrated "Wearing Our Emotions" day, where children expressed how they were feeling through colours and conversation — a lovely way to build empathy and understanding.

On Friday, we continued our celebration of Black History Month with progressive lessons that helped children learn about influential figures, cultural heritage, and the importance of diversity and inclusion.

It's been a meaningful and joyful week of learning!
