

Greenhill Newsletter

On the Little Wandle website there is a section for parents with videos to help you support your child with their early reading and phonics.

Why don't you try...

Greenhill News

In assembly this week, we talked about what it really means to be brave. We reminded the children that being brave does not mean that you are never scared or worried. Feeling nervous or unsure is completely normal, especially when trying something new or challenging. True bravery is about having a go even when something feels difficult.

Punctuality Matters

We would also like to remind families of the importance of arriving at school on time. On Thursday, we had 30 late arrivals. Each late arrival impacts learning, not only for the child arriving late but for the rest of the class too, as lessons are disrupted.

Arriving on time helps children to settle calmly, start the day positively and access the full learning experience. Developing good punctuality habits is an important life skill and supports children both academically and socially.

Thank you for your continued support in ensuring children arrive at school promptly each day.
