

All letters begin with a lead-in stroke, from the bottom, except capitals.
 Every letter is joined to the following letter, except for the letter x (which is completed with a separate stroke down and to the left) and for capital letters.

A cross indicates where a letter should start. The lines show the path a pen should take.
 A dotted line indicates an abrupt change of direction.

