

Spring 1: Incredible Explorers

What do I already know?

- We know how to place events on a timeline in chronological order.
- We know that things in the past are different to what they are like now.
- We know that jobs changed throughout time. A police officer in the past is different to a police officer in the present.

Key facts I will learn:

- I will start to understand the connections between local, regional, national and international history.
- I will learn about significant explorers in the 21st and 20th century.
- I will be able to place explorers and their achievements in chronological order.
- I will learn differences between explorers in the past and explorers in the present.

Key vocabulary

Explorer	A person who explores a new or unfamiliar area.
Expedition	A journey undertaken by a group of people with a purpose, especially that of exploration or research.
Chronological order	Chronological order is listing or discussing when events happened as they relate to time
Exploration	the action of exploring an unfamiliar area.

