What is unwanted touch?

I can…

- Recognise that my body belongs to me and recall how to protect my body.
- Describe inappropriate and appropriate touch
- Explain the right to privacy and where on my body is private

Draw a line to which you think would be appropriate touch for each of these relationships

Uncle

Friend

Parent

Brother

Carer

Dinner lady

Grandparent

Cousin

Team mate

Tickling

Handshake

Kiss on the cheek

Pat on the back

Holding your hand

Putting an arm around you

High five

Hug

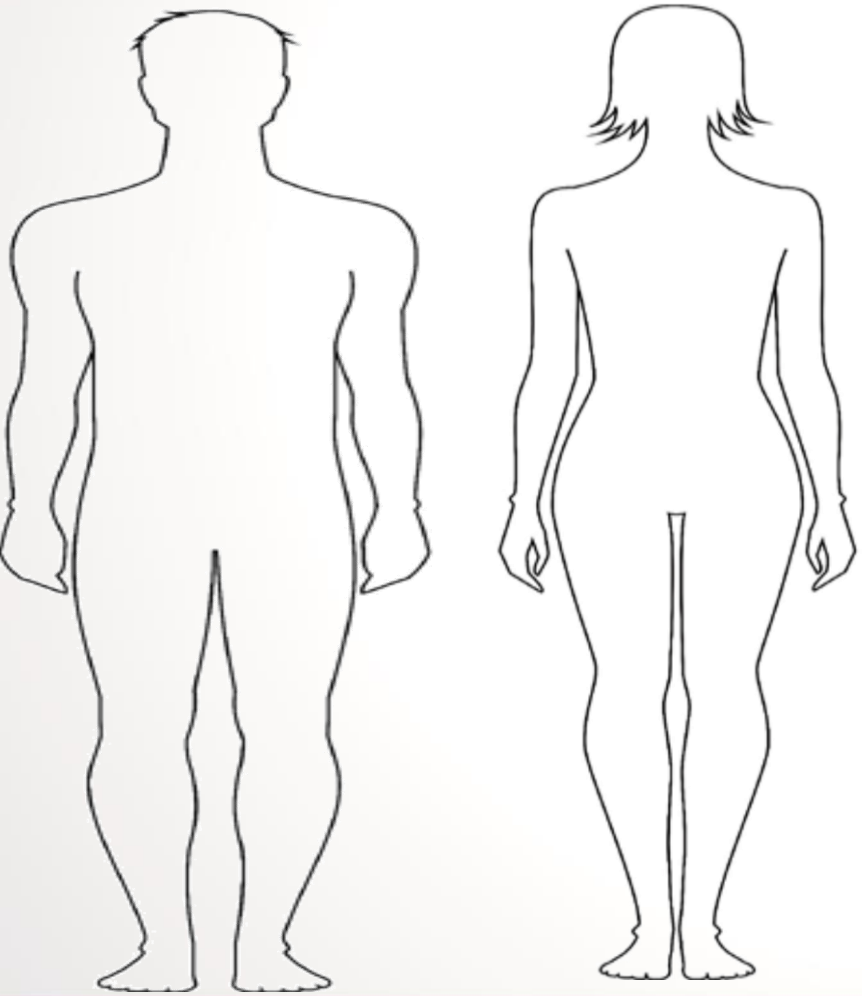

Helping you up from a fall

Do you think how we greet someone depends on our relationship?

The red zones are private parts of my body

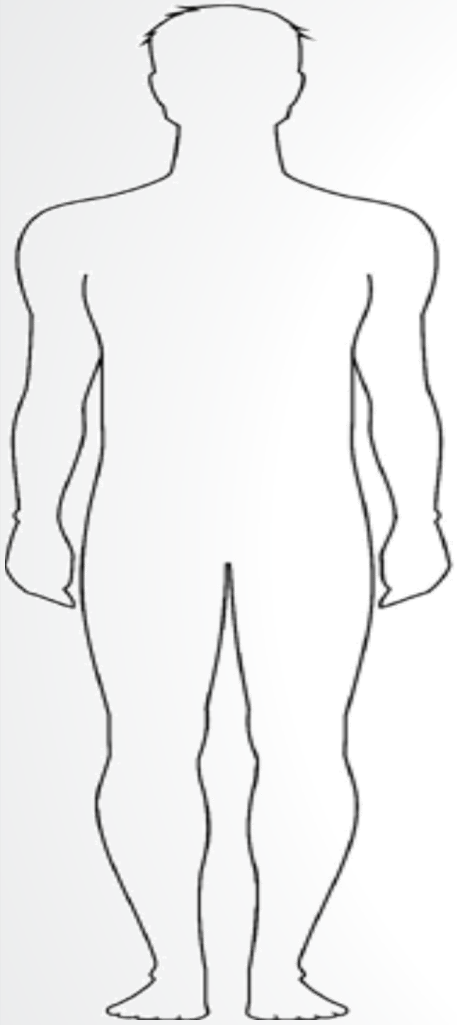

1. Colour the safe touch zones in green.
2. Colour the unsafe touch zones in red.

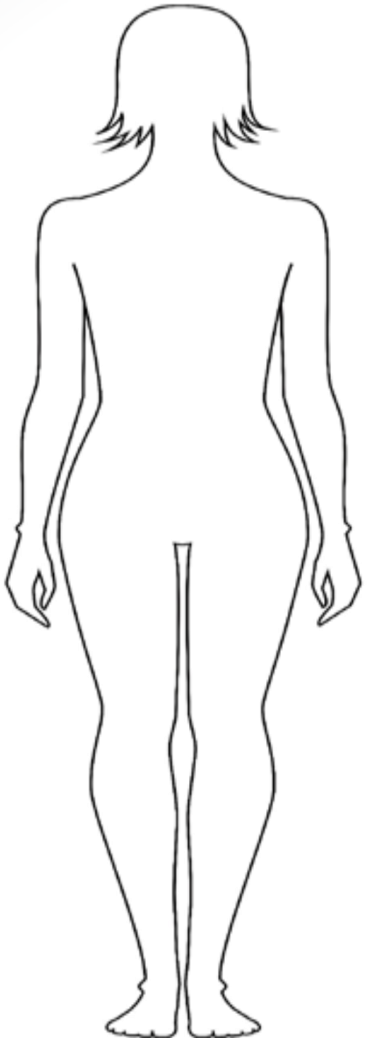

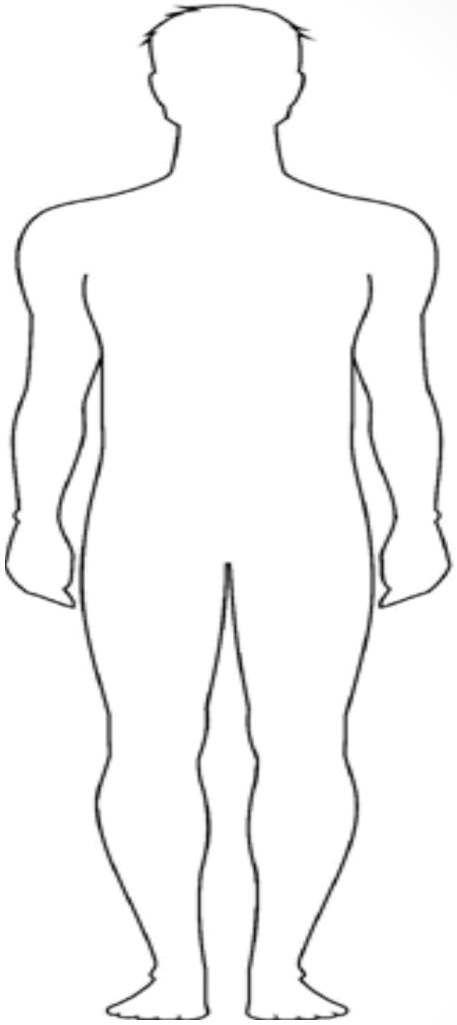

My body belongs to me

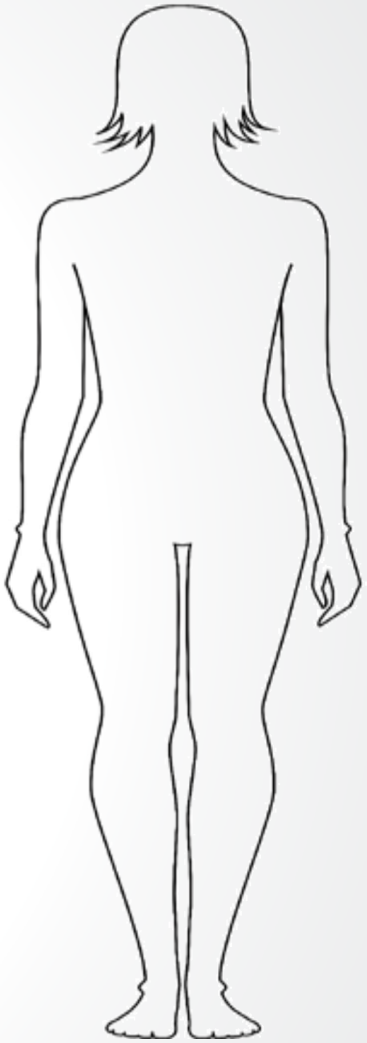

What do you do if a person touches or asks to look at your private /unsafe touch zones?

You have a right to say ‘No’

Discuss in your groups how you would respond to the cards that have examples of unacceptable touch and write your answers on the back.

Acceptable / unacceptable touch

A stranger hugs you	Someone touching a private part of your body	Being tickled when you don't like it
Accidently bumping into someone	A parent/carer stroking your head to help you sleep	A kiss to Say 'hello' or 'goodbye'
Hugging a friend when they are upset	A pat on the back	Shaking hands to greet someone

Acceptable / unacceptable touch

Somebody hits you	A married couple holding hands	Your sister high fives you
Your dog jumps on your knee	Your brother squeezes your arm	A family member hugs you
Your parent kissing you	A doctor makes you show them a part of your body	A stranger on the opposite team touches you during a football match

Is it always ok for a person to touch you?

Discuss and put a cross through the sentences on the worksheet that you think are inappropriate touches.

What are rights?

Where do they come from?

Discuss what are our rights to privacy and protecting our bodies.

What rights do you think children have?

On your UN convention of human rights sheet circle which may be linked to this lesson.
