Head Teachers Comments

Today, is World Mental Health Day. Children came to school wearing something yellow, to show young people that they are not alone with their mental health. It is important for children to know that keeping mentally healthy is just as important as keeping physically healthy. This year we reminded children that staying healthy, fit and well includes looking after their own mental health. We reinforced to children that it being 'okay to not feel okay' as long as they talk to someone about this so that we can help them.
