Week 23 – March 2026

Headteacher's Message

Dear Parents/Carers,

This week, Year 5 enjoyed an exciting Tudor-themed trip to St Osyth's. During the visit, pupils designed their own Tudor buildings and explored the historic chapel while searching for artefacts. They also took part in a line-of-succession scavenger hunt and navigated a maze in the rose garden to uncover hidden historical objects. The day concluded with a trailer ride around the grounds, where the children learned more about the site's fascinating history. It was a wonderful and memorable experience for everyone involved.

Some of our Year 4 pupils also had the opportunity to participate in an inspiring public speaking workshop with The Mighty Oak. The team were extremely impressed by the children's confidence, enthusiasm, and clear articulation as they developed their presentation skills. The pupils rose brilliantly to the challenge, and we are very proud of their efforts. We now look forward to selecting our competition team, who will begin preparing for the event later this year—good luck to all involved!

World Book Day was another highlight of the week, as our school celebrated the theme of Heroes and Villains in fantastic style. Pupils and staff dressed up as their favourite literary characters, bringing well-loved stories to life throughout the school. In the morning, children joined online workshops with well-known children's authors and took part in an engaging writing challenge, producing some wonderfully imaginative work.

Thank you to everyone who supported Thursday's Bandwagon Book Fair. It was a tremendous success, and the funds raised will help us purchase an exciting range of new books for our school. These additions will play an important role in enriching children's knowledge and continuing to foster a lifelong love of reading.

We would also like to extend a huge thank you to Mike Dodsworth, who once again filled our school with his Amazing Tales. His captivating storytelling has been a much-loved tradition at Perryfields for many years, and this visit was no exception. The children were completely enthralled by his thrilling adventures—an unforgettable experience for our whole school community. Thank you, Mr Dodsworth!

Have a wonderful weekend!

Mrs S Edwards

Formerly delivered by National Online Safety, these guides now address wider topics and themes. For further guides, hints and tips, please visit nationalcollege.com.

What Parents & Educators Need to Know about

DEEPPFAKES

WHAT ARE THE RISKS?

A "deepfake" generates photos, videos and audio via AI models trained on the subject to mimic their look and sound, making it appear they said words or committed acts that never occurred. While initially unsophisticated and easy to identify, deepfakes are increasingly more convincing as the technology behind them continues to improve at a solid pace.

FAKE NEWS

With the technology getting easier to use and public figures having lots of photos and clips to train AI from, deepfakes are often used to spread fake news, propaganda and scams. For example, in 2020, an audio deepfake of Labour leader Sir Keir Starmer designed to make him sound like he was leaving an aid was pushed by propagandists on X.

SCAMS

With the right training material, deepfakes can be made from anyone's voice and appearance, and that means scammers can take advantage. In 2019, criminals used the voice of an energy company's CEO to steal £220,000 from the company, and private citizens have also been targeted. In 2023, an Arizona mother was the subject of a fake kidnapping phone call, using deepfaked audio of her daughter pleading for her life.

EXTORTION

You might not be the one being tricked by a deepfake – you could also be the star of it. Blackmail videos are an old as film itself, but with deepfake technology you could become a target without even doing anything. A deepfake video showing a person in an uncompromising position could make the victim pay up, even if the scenes depicted are entirely fictitious.

EXPLICIT MATERIAL

A 2019 report claimed that 96% of deepfake videos were pornographic in nature. In other words, users were routinely superimposing the faces of other people onto the bodies of pornographic actors. This is creepy in its own right but can also lead to the kind of extortion highlighted above. If the video looks convincing enough, indeed, the FBI warned about this phenomenon in 2022.

Advice for Parents & Educators

KEEP THOSE PROFILES PRIVATE

To make a convincing deepfake, you need a supply of images, audio, or video of the subject. This means that most non-celebrity victims are targeted via social media, where there's a ready-made repository of media to train a deepfake from. Most social media companies have privacy settings to prevent unauthorised access, enable these to keep strangers away.

USE RESEARCH AND COMMON SENSE

More sophisticated deepfakes won't have obvious signs but can still be spotted with critical thinking and investigation. If you see a friend or family member in what you think is a deepfake, you could contact them directly and clear it up with them. For public figures, look them up to discover if what you saw was legitimate. Also employ critical thinking – think about why this clip could have been made.

KNOW THE SIGNS

While deepfake technology has come on in leaps and bounds in recent years, there are still telltale signs to look and listen out for. The process of creating deepfakes can leave blurry edges and flickering textures, especially around hair and teeth. If the mouth doesn't seem to be moving in relation to the words spoken, that's another telltale sign. For audio, listen out for mispronounced words and a slightly unusual, robotic rhythm of speech.

INFORM AND EMPOWER CHILDREN

As well as emphasising the need for privacy and not trusting everything they see online, it's important to ensure children realise why deepfakes are problematic in the first place. With deepfake technology getting more accessible and easier to use, children can start using the technology to make deepfakes of schoolmates, teachers, or other adults. Make sure they're aware of the harm this technology can cause and the ethics of manipulating someone's image in this way.
