This week has passed by in the blink of an eye! I can hardly believe it's time to write the newsletter again. We've had lots of exciting learning in school, and the atmosphere is buzzing as we prepare for our Chester Zoo workshops happening next week. The pupils in Year 1 through Year 6 are particularly thrilled about their upcoming visit to the zoo, where they'll get to see all the amazing animals up close. It's going to be another busy week filled with fun and discovery. Thank you for your continued support, and let's keep the enthusiasm going!

Is your child starting primary school in September 2026? If so, apply for your place before 15th January 2026.

Thank you for all who have bought items from the Halloween Shop

This week at William Stockton, our budding artists have been diving into the wonderful world of colour, texture, shape, and form! From the vibrant circles of Kandinsky to the textured masterpieces of Judy Pfaff and the stunning sculptures by local artist Sarah Gallagher, we've been surrounded by inspiration. In Nursery and Reception, the little ones have been having a ball with paint and mark making, discovering their creativity. Year 1 is all about monoprinting, so keep an eye out for some festive final artwork that is sure to dazzle! Meanwhile, Year 2 are getting their hands dirty with clay as they craft unique sculptures.

Over in Year 3/4, the focus is on creating sculptures with paper and boxes, while our talented Year 5/6 students are mixing it up with various art mediums to produce textured art. Recently, they've been busy making collagraph plates to print some gorgeous textured patterns!

We truly adore art at William Stockton!

A photograph of a female teacher with dark hair tied back, wearing a dark cardigan over a patterned top, leaning over a desk to help two young students. The students, a boy and a girl, are both wearing blue school sweaters over white collared shirts. They are looking down at an open book on the desk. The boy is pointing at something in the book. In the background, other students are visible at their desks in a classroom setting. A red banner in the top right corner contains the text 'Important information for parents or carers'.
