We are excited to share how speaking and listening, including performing to an audience, plays a vital role in our curriculum. These activities are not just fun; they support essential skills that help our children build confidence and deepen relationships. Engaging in these practices enhances learning, improves problem-solving abilities, and fosters leadership qualities.

Through speaking and listening, our students learn to express themselves clearly and collaborate effectively, forming the bedrock of all communication and literacy. This not only aids in understanding others but also equips them with the tools to tell captivating stories to an audience. We believe that these experiences are invaluable in nurturing well-rounded individuals who can thrive in various aspects of life. Thank you for your continued support in fostering these important skills in our children!

We were so pleased to perform our amazing Christmas productions to you this week! It was truly heartwarming to see so many supportive parents and carers come out to witness the children's hard work. I was literally blown away by the standard of acting, singing, and dancing that was on display. We really do have such talented children here at William Stockton. A huge thank you must go to the staff who go above and beyond daily for the children's benefit. This was particularly evident this week with the productions and our delightful Breakfast with Santa events. Their dedication and enthusiasm made these occasions truly special. Thank you to each and every one of them for their unwavering support and commitment to our students. We are so proud of our school community!

Thank you to our friends of William Stockton who organised the Breakfast with Santa and Christmas shop to raise money for school.
